

Reply provided via the form on NC website:

Url consulta: open-public-consultation-on-the-potential-removal-of-the-so-called-second-auctions

Email: besm@global-riskmanagement.com

Mensaje :It really depends on what has caused hitting price threshold. In the recent example in Finland a re-opening of the order book should have meant the responsible party correct their market order and prevented the error that caused the extreme price. The main justification seems to be due to the complexity of adding 15 min products to this auction when here is already a solution with a 15 minute afternoon auction.